GTECH RELEASES ANNUAL SUSTAINABILITY REPORT

PROVIDENCE, RHODE ISLAND (US) – September 30, 2013 – GTECH S.p.A. announced the release of the 2012 Sustainability Report, formerly known as the Social Report. This is the sixth edition of the Sustainability Report, which consists of five chapters: Group Profile, Sustainability Strategy, Economic Responsibility, Social Responsibility, and Environmental Responsibility.

GTECH is committed to responsible growth that creates constant and sustainable value over time. The Sustainability Report highlights the initiatives GTECH has implemented to maintain social, environmental, and economic responsibility. GTECH's social responsibility includes responsible gaming and player protection initiatives, as well as community outreach programs. GTECH monitors the environmental impacts of its corporate activities and makes energy-saving investments to achieve environmental responsibility. Economic responsibility translates into a transparent and balanced governance model.

Responsible Gaming
In 2012, GTECH continued its efforts to strengthen its responsible gaming objectives by developing new functions including age controls, customer relationship management, player tracking, and analytics. GTECH's primary responsible gaming initiatives are in three main areas:

- Prevention of underage play;
- Prevention of problem gambling; and
- Support for problem gamblers and their families.

Through active collaborations with the World Lottery Association, European Lotteries Association, and the North American Association of State and Provincial Lotteries, GTECH developed responsible gaming initiatives that are best practices in the industry.

The Company also supports agencies that research and treat problem gaming. For example, GTECH sponsored and participated in the National Council on Problem Gambling's 26th National Conference on Problem Gambling.

Lottomatica, GTECH's Italian operator, and the FeDerSerD (Ferderazione Italiana degli Operatori dei Dipartimenti e dei Servizi delle Dipendenze) continued their partnership operating Italy's toll-free hotline for problem gaming. The helpline services extend to a website that allows visitors to chat online with problem gaming experts. Additionally, Lottomatica and MOIGE – Movimento Italiano Genitori e FIT, Federazione Italiano Tabaccai (Italian Movement of Parents and FIT, the Italian Tobacco Federation) launched three new campaigns throughout Italy as part of the initiative for the protection of minors.

Community Initiatives
GTECH supports a diverse selection of social responsibility initiatives around the world focusing on education, community, and employee involvement. GTECH gives back through matching gifts, team grants, and donations to local non-profits as well as allowing employees a paid day off to volunteer at a local non-profit. In 2012, GTECH and its employees helped many organizations including the National Multiple Sclerosis Society, the Salvation Army, the American Heart Association, Almost Home (Animal) Rescue, Habitat for Humanity, and many more.

The After School Advantage program is GTECH's flagship charitable initiative, which provides computer technology and software to educational after school programs at non-profit community agencies that serve at-risk youth. The mission of the program is to lessen the "digital divide" for disadvantaged youth who do not have access to computers. In 2012, GTECH installed 23 After School Advantage computer labs in jurisdictions where GTECH does business, bringing the total to 194 labs worldwide since the program's inception in 1999.

In 2012, when the disastrous Hurricane Sandy hit the Caribbean and the East Coast of the U.S., GTECH donated $25,000 to both the Empire State Relief Fund in New York and the Hurricane Sandy New Jersey Relief Fund. Additionally, GTECH sites around the world raised $4,000 to aid GTECH employees affected by the natural disaster.

Environmental Sustainability
In 2012, GTECH offices in Rome, Italy; Providence, Rhode Island; and Lakeland, Florida were awarded ISO14001:2004 certification, which indicates the organizations have an Environmental Management System (EMS) that has been approved by a corresponding body. Additionally, GTECH obtained ISO 50001:2011 certification for energy efficiency in Italy.

GTECH and its employees are committed to protecting the environment through GREEN: A GTECH Pledge. For example:

- GTECH reduced consumption of office paper from 37.2 tons to 34.6 tons;
- GTECH's printing facility recycled approximately 1,875 metric tons of baled paper; and
- The most recent initiative, "Turn Grease into Fuel," recycled about 85.5 gallons of cooking oil each quarter to repurpose into biodiesel.

Economic Responsibility
In 2012, the worldwide gaming market continued on the positive growth trend that followed the 2009 economic crisis, increasing 1.8%. In line with the worldwide gaming market, the European market increased 5.4% to €93.7 billion.

In 2012, GTECH's global net added value increased by 9.5% compared to 2011, despite the European sovereign debt. Also, the growth trends from 2011 continued in 2012, with a 3.4% increase in consolidated proceeds and an 8.1% increase in operating results. Additionally, the distribution of added value to local communities rose 17.3% since 2011.

This report is prepared in accordance with the Sustainability Reporting Guidelines (version 3.1) which are defined by the Global Reporting Initiative (GRI). The 2012 GTECH Sustainability Report was submitted to auditing company Ernst & Young S.p.A. for external assurance.
