FORTUNE 1000 Company

COMPANY OVERVIEW

Fleetwood Enterprises, Inc., through its subsidiaries, is one of North America's largest producers of recreational vehicles and manufactured homes. The Company, founded in 1950, had its initial public offering in 1965. This Fortune 1000 company, headquartered in Riverside, California, is dedicated to providing quality, innovative products that offer exceptional value to its customers.

NEWS HIGHLIGHTS

New modular division, Trendsetter Homes, has been chosen to provide living units for several military base housing projects and multi-family development projects.

New RV brands introduced during calendar 2007 include Icon and Pulse (fuel-efficient, upscale Class C models built on the popular Dodge Sprinter chassis and powered by a Mercedes-Benz® diesel engine), American Allegiance (a surprisingly affordable luxury diesel with the widest floor plans in the industry), Tioga Ranger & Jamboree Sport (entry-level Class C models), and the Formula line of mid-priced toy hauler fifth wheels that feature innovative garage floor plans.

Travel trailer production realigned and simplified in fiscal 2007; moved from nine plants to five.

Class A Motor Home

Class C Motor Home

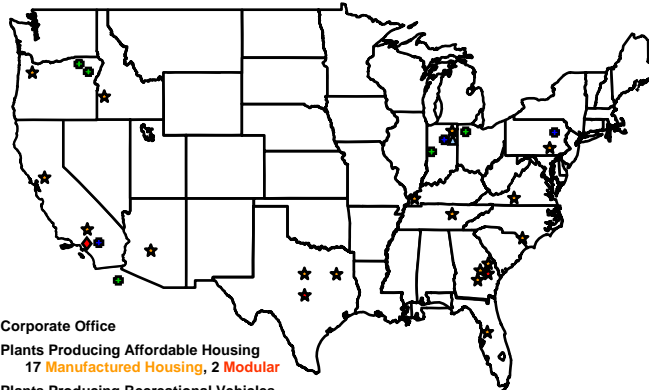

Our popular full-wall-slide floor plan is now available on 11 motor home brands (all diesel brands plus Pace Arrow and Southwind). Fleetwood's patent-pending technology eliminates the typical hourglass shape in most RVs and creates a wide-open residential space. Other highlights include mid-ship-TV floor plans and many more ½-ton towable models.
