ANZ in the community

What kinds of contributions does ANZ make to community?

ANZ is committed to making a significant contribution to the economic development and wellbeing of the communities it serves across Australia. ANZ's initiatives and investments focus on building individual prosperity, contributing to thriving local communities and navigating responsible growth.

Initiatives across Australia include:

- Working with diverse community partners to deliver market-leading financial education and savings programs to around 200,000 people in 270 communities
- Our employees volunteering over 200,000 hours to Australian communities
- Providing more than $2.75m in grants to almost 600 regional community projects, through our Seeds of Renewal program
- Recruiting more than 500 Indigenous trainees and providing 53 refugees with work experience

ANZ's approach to business, including its engagement with communities, recently was again recognised in the Dow Jones Sustainability Index, ranked 2012's most sustainable bank globally, for the fifth time in six years.

What does the Banking on Australia announcement mean for the community?

As part of Banking on Australia, ANZ is committing a further $20 million over the next five years to continue its work done to date to improve the financial literacy levels of vulnerable Australians.

This announcement reinforces ANZ's continued commitment to support a wide range of charities and community organisations that have a particular focus on people experiencing disadvantage.

ANZ will also continue our other initiatives to help people in need, such as:

- Contributing financially through the ANZ Staff Foundation and Payroll Giving, with donations matched dollar-for-dollar by ANZ
- Volunteering by staff, through general and skilled support in communities local to ANZ branches
- Distributing financial support through local grants program
- Responding to communities experiencing the impacts of natural disasters
