MSA Announces Record First Quarter Revenue and Earnings

- Quarterly Revenue Increases 6% to $293 million
- Net Income Increases 80% to $24 million
- EPS Increases to $0.65 cents per basic share

PITTSBURGH, April 25, 2012 – MSA (NYSE: MSA) today announced that net sales for the first quarter of 2012 were $293 million compared with $276 million for the first quarter of 2011, an increase of $17 million, or 6 percent. Net income for the first quarter of 2012 was $24 million, or 65 cents per basic share, an increase of $11 million, or 80 percent, compared with $13 million, or 36 cents per basic share, during the same period last year.

“Our first quarter results reflect the successful implementation of our corporate strategy to focus on core products, emerging markets, continued cost efficiencies and our European transformation,” said William M. Lambert, MSA President and CEO. “For the quarter, revenue from our five core product groups, which are industrial head protection, fall protection devices, portable gas detectors, fixed flame and gas detection systems, and self-contained breathing apparatus (SCBA), increased 16 percent. In addition, the results we are seeing in managing our manufacturing and operating costs are encouraging.” Mr. Lambert noted that for the quarter, operating margins improved 410 basis points when compared to the first quarter of 2011.

First quarter sales in the company's North American segment increased $7 million, or 5 percent, when compared to the comparable period of 2011. For the quarter, MSA North America continued to experience strong demand in industrial markets, which led to an increase of $11 million in gas detection product sales. This improvement was partially offset by a decline of $5 million in sales of ballistic helmets and vests. The ballistic vest business was sold during the fourth quarter of 2011. As announced in March, MSA has signed a non-binding letter of intent to sell its North America ballistic helmet business. This transaction is expected to be completed during the second quarter.

Sales in the company's European segment increased $8 million, or 12 percent, when compared to the first quarter of 2011. Local currency sales increased in most product groups with the most significant increases occurring in the markets for gas detection products, SCBAs and ballistic helmets. Local currency sales of gas detection products increased $6 million on higher shipments to industrial markets, while local currency sales of ballistic helmets were up $1 million on higher shipments to the military markets. Currency translation effects decreased first quarter European segment sales, when stated in U.S. dollars, by $3 million, primarily related to a weaker euro.

Sales in MSA's International segment increased $3 million, or 3 percent, in the first quarter of 2012. On a local currency basis, sales increased $5 million, or 7 percent, reflecting stronger product demand in emerging markets across Latin America and Asia, primarily in industrial markets across a broad group of product lines. Currency translation effects decreased International segment sales, when stated in U.S. dollars, by $2 million, primarily related to a weakening of the South African rand and the Brazilian real.

Net income in MSA's North American segment increased $6 million in the first quarter of 2012. This increase reflects the previously discussed increase in sales and improved gross profits. These improvements were partially offset by higher operating costs on the higher level of sales.

Net income in MSA's European segment increased $4 million in the quarter. This improvement was primarily related to the previously discussed increase in sales, improved gross profits and controlled operating costs. The prior year income included $1 million of after-tax charges related to restructuring activities. Excluding these charges, net income increased $3 million.

Net income in the International segment was $1 million higher in the first quarter of 2012. The increase in income was primarily related to higher core product sales and improved gross profits, partially offset by higher selling expenses in Latin America and Asia.

"Our global team remains very focused on leveraging the strengths of our core product lines and capitalizing on the growth opportunities that exists for those lines in both established and emerging markets," Mr. Lambert said. "While I remain optimistic about business conditions throughout much of the world, we continue to see sluggish economic conditions throughout much of Western Europe. In spite of this unevenness, we remain committed to executing our strategy targeted at growing core product revenues around the globe, developing new and innovative products that exceed customer expectations, investing in emerging markets, all while diligently managing operating and manufacturing costs," he concluded.
