WYNDHAM DIRECTOR OF NATIONAL SALES
RECOGNIZED AS SUPPLIER OF THE YEAR

DALLAS (Feb. 12, 2003) –Wyndham International, Inc. (WBR: AMEX) announced today that Stacy Lucherini, director of national sales, has been named Supplier of the Year by The Austin Group, a closely held advisory services firm with significant accomplishments in the areas of conference resources and travel management. Lucherini received this honor based on her excellence in responsiveness, professionalism, salesmanship and integrity of action.

“Stacy’s sales efforts have been truly exemplary and have contributed to Wyndham’s revenue during her 15-year tenure with us. This award is testament to her perseverance,” said Brad Kent, vice president of national sales.

Since 1996, Lucherini has served as director of national sales, in which she focuses on establishing Wyndham International as a top tier hotel company in the meetings market by targeting Fortune 500 companies and top associations in Chicago for their meetings business. During the past five years, she has secured over $36.5 million in group room business for Wyndham, and has surpassed annual sales goals by as much as 38 percent. Lucherini’s recognition as Supplier of The Year is one of many accolades she has received, including 1997 and 1998 recognitions as Wyndham’s National Sales Person of the Year.

Lucherini’s tenure began with Wyndham in 1987 at the Wyndham Palm Springs in the group sales department. Due diligence and hard work earned her a promotion to senior sales manager within two years. It was during this time that she exceeded her sales goal by a minimum of 26 percent annually. In 1994, Lucherini relocated to Chicago to establish a presence in that marketplace for the Wyndham Palm Springs, and while there she increased revenues in her market by over 50 percent.
