ITG MAKES KEY ASIA PACIFIC APPOINTMENTS

Names New Head of Technology

Investment Technology Group, the technology-based equity trading services group, has made a number of key personnel appointments in Asia Pacific as the company positions itself for expansion in the region and the introduction of new trading technologies in the coming year.

Technology

Ajith Ratnarajah has been appointed as Head of Technology, Asia Pacific. He will head a team of 35 and be responsible for software development, production services and product management in the region. Prior to joining ITG, Ajith spent three years as an independent consultant delivering enterprise architecture services to financial institutions and vendors. Before that, he was with Reuters Plc and TIBCO Finance working in the US, UK, Singapore, Hong Kong. He holds a bachelor's degree in software engineering from London Kings College and an MBA from Melbourne Business School.

Ajith reports to Tuval Chomut, Head of ITG's International Technology, and is a member of the ITG Asia Pacific executive committee.

Legal & compliance

Kiri Binning has been appointed Head of Legal and her role will be to ensure ITG meets all its legal requirements as more new products and services are deployed in different jurisdictions across the region. Previously, Kiri spent 10 years in private practice, most recently as an associate at US law firm Jones Day based in Hong Kong and before that she worked at Slaughter & May, also in Hong Kong. Her early legal career was in Australia with Allens Arthur Robinson and Deacons. Kiri holds an LLB law degree from Queensland University of Technology.

Human resources

Anissa Yu has been appointed as Head of Human Resources. She joined ITG from Prudential Corp. where she was head of HR for the company's funds business and responsible for 800 staff in 9 countries. Prior roles include director of HR in Asia for legal firm Johnson Stokes & Master and pan-Asian HR roles at investment banks ABN AMRO and Dresdner Kleinwort Benson.

Both Kiri and Anissa report to Alasdair Thomson, Chief Operating Officer of ITG in Asia Pacific.

Marketing & communications

Clare Rowsell will join ITG in March to establish marketing and communications functions for ITG in Asia Pacific. The objective is to bring the region in line with ITG's US and European marketing strategy and to raise the profile of the company and its personnel.

Clare will report to Belinda Keheyman, ITG's Head of International Marketing. Clare, along with Anissa and Kiri, work out of ITG's Hong Kong office, while Ajith is based in Melbourne.

Commenting on the appointments, Alasdair Haynes, Managing Director and CEO of ITG's international operations said:

"We are making a significant investment into further strengthening our Asia Pacific operations both in terms of people, technology, products and services. We have a tremendous opportunity to grow in the region and these strategic hires are vital in helping us achieve our aims. I welcome Ajith, Anissa, Kiri and Clare to ITG."
