Back-to-school categories drove sales during the four-week August period at Wal-Mart Stores U.S. In the general merchandise area, back-to-school categories had solid sales performance, with strength in electronics, school supplies and children's apparel. Sales of laptops and calculators did well, as families prepared for later school start dates in some states such as Florida and Texas. Back-to-college essentials and "rollback" features helped increase sales in domestics, including bedding, bath towels and plastic storage and organization items.

Price leadership initiatives continued to drive traffic to Wal-Mart's grocery business as well. Food categories were strong throughout the month and the back-to-school season helped drive convenience items for school lunch boxes and snacks.

"We are pleased with our performance during August, because it reflects continuing momentum in grocery and electronics. Home and apparel are expected to continue improving into the fourth quarter," said Eduardo Castro-Wright, president and chief executive officer of Wal-Mart Stores U.S. "Overall, we are pleased with our inventory position at the end of August."

Sam's Club

Sam's Club's sales for the four-week period were driven by increases in average ticket with both business and Advantage members. Sales among small business members continued to be strongest. Similar to the prior four-week period, sales in electronics, fresh food and grocery were strengths. Hotter weather positively impacted sales of some seasonal items. The clubs are transitioning now to Halloween and autumn seasonal categories and are beginning preparations for the holiday season.

International

During the August period, Brazil and the United Kingdom continued their recent positive performance. Brazil sales continued to improve ahead of the market, mainly driven by a stronger price position, assortment that is customized to the local community and a recovery of disposable income. Asda continued to gain market share during August. Macroeconomic factors contributed to a slowdown in sales in Mexico during the period.

Guidance

The Company expects the comparable store sales of its U.S. operations for the September five-week reporting period to be between 1 and 3 percent, said Tom Schoewe, executive vice president and chief financial officer. The September five-week period runs from September 1 through October 5, 2007.

As previously noted, the Company reports net sales and comparable store sales consistent with the National Retail Federation (NRF) calendar. The NRF calendar included 53 weeks for the most recently completed year, but includes only 52 weeks this year. The weekly sales information for the four-week and 30-week periods ended September 1, 2006 reported in this release match the comparable weeks in the retail calendar for the current fiscal year. However, these four-week and 30-week comparable store sales periods reported for last year ended August 25, 2006, one week earlier.

The Company has posted on its Web site, www.walmartstores.com/investors, a "reclassification" document showing prior year comparable store sales re-grouped to match the comparable weeks for the current reporting calendar. The reclassified total U.S. comparable store sales for the September 2006 five-week period ending October 6, 2006 is 1.6 percent, excluding the impact of fuel.
