FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

EDWARD D. BREEN NOMINATED AS INDEPENDENT DIRECTOR OF COMCAST CORPORATION BOARD OF DIRECTORS

Election Would Give Comcast a Two-Thirds Independent Board

Philadelphia (April 8, 2005) – Comcast Corporation (Nasdaq: CMCSA, CMCSK) today announced that Edward D. Breen has been nominated to be an independent director of Comcast Corporation. Mr. Breen will be added to the slate of 11 incumbent directors for election at the company's annual meeting of shareholders, to be held this year on June 1 in Philadelphia. Following the annual meeting, if all director nominees are elected, independent directors will constitute two thirds, or eight of twelve members, of Comcast's board.

Mr. Breen is Chairman and CEO of Tyco International, Ltd. (NYSE: TYC; BSX: TYC). He joined Tyco in July 2002 after serving as president and COO of cable industry leading supplier Motorola, Inc. He began working at Motorola in January 2000, when General Instrument Corp., where he served as chairman, president and CEO, merged with Motorola.

Brian L. Roberts, Chairman and CEO of Comcast said, "Ed Breen will make an outstanding director of Comcast. Our board and shareholders will benefit from his insight leading Tyco through an unprecedented recovery and his experience as a technology leader with Motorola. With his election, Comcast will have a two-thirds independent board, consistent with our commitment to strong corporate governance."

Mr. Breen, 49, is a recipient of the National Cable and Telecommunications Association's prestigious Vanguard Award in recognition of his contributions to the growth of the cable industry. He earned his B.S. from Grove City College in North Pittsburgh, PA, is married with three children, and IS a resident of New Hope, PA.
