

Utrechtse Juristen Groep becomes USG Juristen

Almere, 7 October 2008 – USG Juristen is the new name under which Utrechtse Juristen Groep will operate from today. The name change underlines the link to parent company USG People and provides room for the unit to widen its scope. The name change is being backed by a nationwide campaign. USG Juristen also plans to further specialise in the areas of the law in which the organisation is active.

USG Juristen has found that in the current market there is strong demand for practical legal solutions. In order to meet this demand USG Juristen works exclusively with legal consultants who are able to translate the law into practice. In addition to taking this pragmatic approach, the new-look organisation will further increase the perspectives it offers its business relations - for candidates by providing opportunities that include complete training and development paths, and for clients by expanding its role as advisory partner.

USG Juristen provides not only advice on policy-related, legal and organisational issues but also support in dealing with complex dossiers. USG Juristen provides its services through three divisions: W&S Juristen, Executive Consultancy and Interim Juristen. In addition, the organisation offers mediation services, corporate training programmes on legal issues, legal outsourcing and legal and organisational consultancy services.
