AIG EXECUTIVE LIABILITY INTRODUCES SPECIALTY RISK PROTECTOR

Modular Policy Combines Professional Liability and Data Network Security Coverages

NEW YORK, January 27, 2009 – AIG Executive Liability[®], a unit of AIG Commercial Insurance, today announced Specialty Risk ProtectorSM, a modular package of professional liability and data network security coverages for all types of businesses with annual revenue over $500 million.

Specialty Risk Protector allows insureds to bundle a number of coverages into one policy. The package includes coverage for specialty errors & omissions; network security and privacy; event management; crisis fund; network interruption; cyber extortion; media for publishers and broadcasters; media content; and employed lawyers' professional liability.

Specialty Risk Protector also responds to evolving customer needs with a streamlined policy form and the expansive event management feature, providing coverage for investigative fees, notification costs and public relations firm fees during a security breach or privacy event.

“Through concise wording and efficient claims-reporting provisions, Specialty Risk Protector offers one policy for multiple coverages, which previously could only be purchased individually,” said Michael Smith, President, AIG Executive Liability. “We’ve simplified how companies can purchase specialty E&O and data network security, while still offering the ability to tailor coverage to meet their unique needs.”

With limits of up to $25 million per coverage part and up to $50 million in the aggregate, Specialty Risk Protector allows customers to add new coverages as their business needs change.
