AIG COMPANIES ANNOUNCE SEMINAR SERIES ON INTERNATIONAL LIABILITY AND LITIGATION ISSUES

NEW YORK, February 13, 2008 – The AIG Companies® today announced a seminar series on international liability and litigation issues. The series, titled The Globalization of Liability: Managing Multinational Solutions, features some of the foremost international legal experts discussing today's increasingly complex global regulatory and litigation landscape.

Companies with international operations will benefit from the detailed overview of recent changes in regulations and developments in international litigation and claims, growing multinational business exposures and analysis of the benefits to securing locally admitted insurance policies. The series will also outline the advantages of the AIG Passport<sup>SM</sup> service platform.

The Globalization of Liability seminar series kicks-off in Atlanta on February 13th, with events planned in eleven major regions including Philadelphia (February 14), New York (February 26), Chicago (February 28), Los Angeles (March 4), Dallas (March 5), Houston (March 6), Boston (April 2), San Francisco (April 8), Detroit (April 9) and Toronto (April 18).

“AIG created this seminar series as a forum for multinationals to discuss key litigation trends and evolving liability issues. Our global footprint and decades of international experience, makes us uniquely qualified to demystify the risks of operating in an ever-changing global business environment,” said John Q. Doyle, President and CEO, AIG Executive Liability.
