AIG PRIVATE CLIENT GROUP EXPANDS ITS MOBILE WILDFIRE PROTECTION UNIT® TO ORANGE COUNTY AND ADDITIONAL AREAS IN CALIFORNIA

NEW YORK, June 06, 2007 – AIG Private Client Group, a division of the personal lines property and casualty insurance subsidiaries of American International Group, Inc. (AIG), today announced the expansion of its Wildfire Protection Unit® to parts of Orange Country, California, as well as additional areas within Los Angeles, San Diego and Northern California.

The Wildfire Protection Unit is a complimentary mobile service designed to mitigate wildfire exposure for AIG Private Client Group policyholders residing in predefined response zones. It was first introduced in 2005 and available in only 14 California zip codes. Now the service has expanded to reach properties in 150 zip codes, including select areas of Colorado.

Wildfire Protection Unit services* include:

- On-site consultation — wildfire mitigation specialists visit the policyholder's property to assess exposure levels and provide guidance on brush control.
- Pre-treatment — if necessary, perimeter brush on the property is sprayed with Phos-Chek®, the same environmentally friendly fire retardant used by the U.S. Forest Service but modified for residential use. Phos-Chek is colorless; safe around plants, animals and people; and it will not stain or damage the home.
- Emergency response — enrolled properties are mapped using GPS technology. If a wildfire threatens the home, an emergency response truck will be dispatched automatically to apply fire retardant to all combustible areas on the property, including landscaping.

“The severity of wildfires continues to increase, as do the geographic areas affected by them,” said Dorothy Sarna, Vice President of Loss Prevention, AIG Private Client Group. “By expanding the reach of our Wildfire Protection Unit, AIG Private Client Group can continue to proactively address the threat faced by many of our policyholders.”
