AIG PRIVATE CLIENT GROUP EXPANDS ITS MOBILE WILDFIRE PROTECTION UNIT® TO ADDITIONAL AREAS IN CALIFORNIA AND INTRODUCES THE SERVICE IN SELECT PARTS OF COLORADO

NEW YORK, August 14, 2006 – AIG Private Client Group, a division of the personal lines property and casualty insurance subsidiaries of American International Group, Inc. (AIG), today announced the expansion of its Wildfire Protection Unit®, the first mobile service designed to mitigate wildfire exposure and proactively respond to high net worth insureds in select areas of high exposure.

The Wildfire Protection Unit was first introduced in June 2005 and was available to insureds residing in 14 California zip codes. The service, which is complimentary for eligible insureds, has been expanded to reach 90 zip codes, including select areas of Colorado.

Wildfire Protection Unit services* include:

- On-site consultation — wildfire mitigation specialists visit the policyholder's property to assess exposure levels and determine if pre-treatment is warranted.
- Pre-treatment — if necessary, perimeter brush on the property is sprayed with Phos-Chek®, the same environmentally friendly fire retardant used by the U.S. Forest Service.
- Rapid Response — enrolled properties are mapped using GPS technology. If a wildfire threatens the home, a "Rapid Response" truck will be automatically dispatched to apply fire retardant to all combustible areas on the property, including landscaping.

"So far in 2006 we have seen an unprecedented amount of wildfires across the U.S. Not only is the number of wildfires at an all-time high, but the severity and geographic areas they affect are increasing," said Stephen Poux, Vice President of Loss Prevention, AIG Private Client Group. "Rather than sit idly and hope for the best, we sought to proactively address the threat faced by many of our policyholders. We are excited to expand the geographic reach of the Wildfire Protection Unit to help more people protect their residences."
