

Our Social Issue Priorities: By the nature of our business, social issues are integral to the pharmaceutical industry. Our industry has a special responsibility because drugs are essential to prolonging and improving the quality of life. Schering-Plough's senior management recommends social issue priorities to its Board annually, and these priorities are incorporated in all of our work. Our process enables us to identify pressing social issues, respond appropriately and maximize the impact of the resources we can bring to bear.
