Paris, 1 March 2007 - JCDecaux SA (Euronext Paris: DEC), the number one outdoor advertising company in Europe and in the Asia-Pacific region and number two worldwide, announced that SOMUPI (a subsidiary held 66% by JCDecaux and 34% by Médias et Régies Europe - Publicis Group), signed on 27 February 2007 a 10-year self-service bicycle and street furniture contract with the City of Paris. The award of the contract, which the Mayor of Paris was authorised to sign by unanimous vote during the meeting of the Council of Paris on 12 February 2007, follows the 23 February 2007 ruling of the Paris Administrative Court that rejected Clear Channel's request for invalidation of the public tender procedure.

SOMUPI, taking into account the aesthetics of the urban environment has commissioned three renowned designers/architects: Jean-Michel Wilmotte, Patrick Jouin and Ora-Ito, to work on proposals for bicycles stations and street furniture exclusively for the City of Paris which has selected Patrick Jouin's proposal. The bicycle was designed by JCDecaux's design and research department.

The bicycle scheme of 20,600 bicycles in 1,451 stations will create over 400 jobs. Staff are going to be immediately recruited and will undertake training in JCDecaux's continuing education centre to become proficient in bicycle maintenance and to offer users the best service. Maintenance teams will travel either by bicycle or in environmentally friendly vehicles.

This eco-friendly self-service bicycle system, was specially designed for Paris and is the largest ever established in the world. It will be financed by the advertising revenues from the operation of 1628 2m² and 8m² street information scrolling displays.

Maurice Lévy, Chairman of the board Publicis Group, stated: "The proposal JCDecaux has developed responds to the great challenges facing large cities at the dawn of the 21st century in an intelligent and highly judicious way. We are delighted to be associated with it and Parisians will be able to benefit from a new service that is ecologically friendly, innovative, pleasant and very reliable."
